Fifth Sunday of Lent

Theme/Call To Worship

In the Gospel reading for the Fifth Sunday of Lent, we hear Jesus speak about his impending death on the cross. Looking beyond the suffering, Jesus understands the cross as the vehicle to “glorify” his Father’s name.

Introduction To The Word

Jeremiah 31:31-34: In the first reading, God establishes a new covenant with the prophet Jeremiah. This new covenant is marked by three characteristics. First, it is permanent. Second, it is written upon people’s “hearts,” not upon stone tablets that crumble and decay. Third, with this covenant, knowledge of God will not be limited to Israel; all people will come to know God, receiving his divine mercy and forgiveness.

Hebrews 5:7-9: In the second reading, we hear how the author of the Letter to the Hebrews made sense of the anguish Jesus experienced as he faced the reality of his suffering and death. According to the theology of Hebrews, the traditional Jewish high priest was able to relate to the people because of his own sin, but Christ, who was without sin, could not relate to the people in this traditional manner. Therefore, Jesus needed to suffer, as we all suffer, so that he could relate to each of us. In that way Jesus was made the “perfect” (and eternal) high priest.

John 12:20-33: In the Gospel reading for the Fifth Sunday of Lent, and throughout John’s Gospel, Jesus makes reference to his “coming hour,” and the idea of Jesus’ coming “hour” serves as a metaphor for his impending suffering, death, resurrection, and ascension. Jesus uses the analogy of a grain of wheat dying so that “it produces much fruit” as a means of inviting others to do likewise: to take up their cross and follow Jesus. In the Gospel of John, Jesus embraces his destiny of death on the cross and his resurrection from the dead: “And when I am lifted up from the earth, I will draw everyone to myself.”

Special OLCG Presentation

The Corona Self-Help Center (D.A.) will be making presentations, and asking for your support, at each of the OLCG Masses this weekend. D.A. is an organization that works with individuals and families suffering from substance abuse problems. D.A.’s, free of charge, drug-free residential recovery programs, are similar to other 12-step strategies, with treatment stages reflecting increased levels of personal and social responsibilities. All D.A. representatives are former drug addicts who have found a new lease on life because of the spiritual component and programs offered to them by D.A. Your support will help to maintain this important and effective treatment system for people who wish to find their path to freedom.
