Eleventh Sunday in Ordinary Time

Theme/Call To Worship

In the readings for the Eleventh Sunday in Ordinary Time we hear the prophet Ezekiel and Jesus speak in metaphors about God's work in the world.

Introduction To The Word

Ezekiel 17:22-24: The first reading taken from the Book of Ezekiel is counted among his earliest prophecies, spoken before the Babylonians destroyed the Jerusalem Temple in 587 BC. It is meant as a prophecy of hope to the exiled Israelites. In fact, Ezekiel foreshadowed a restoration of the house of David, a prophecy that was fulfilled with the birth of Jesus (the "tender shoot"), a descendant of the house of David.

II Corinthians 5:6-10: The second reading is taken from Paul's Second Letter to the Corinthians. Paul speaks of the courage of walking by faith, "not by sight."

Mark 4:26-34: Today's Gospel reading presents two different parables about the kingdom of God. The first is a parable of the seed's growth. In this parable the seed is obviously a metaphor for the kingdom of God and Jesus' point is clear: the kingdom of God is present and growing—often unbeknownst to many—yielding a rich harvest. The second parable is the mustard seed, a parable in which Jesus makes a similar point to Ezekiel: even the tiniest of God's work in the world yields an abundance of returns.
